

Bloom!

Mon 13 - Fri 17 Dec 2010

Bloom! is an eclectic collective of dance artists, inspired by the belief that collaboration is of the essence, in order to create powerful and vivid works. Working from both Budapest and London, the collective includes Hungarian, Spanish and Italian artists. The group's philosophy redefines the hierarchy between choreographer and performer, giving life to a creative process in which every artist is equally responsible and involved.

During the residency we worked towards the creation of Tame Game (to be premiered on the 6th of January 2011 at The Robin Howard Dance Theatre (The Place, London).

We created an environment of openness and trust in which every artist was able to propose ideas and work on them with the support of the group. The choreography and the sound score were created separately and brought together by the end of the week.

The residency represented a crucial stage in the creation of Tame Game. The fact of having a sharing at the end of the week encouraged us to take more efficient decisions regarding the dramaturgy of the piece. Moreover, the feedback we received proved to be very appropriate and useful.

This residency has been a great chance to focus on the development of our choreographic practice in a pressure-free context. The final sharing provided us with very valuable feedback which helped us take some radical decisions about the final structure and content of Tame Game.

Thanks to this residency, Bloom! was also able to develop Tame Game entirely in the UK.

www.hirudance.org
www.hirudance.org/blog/bloom